3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Plants have been used for treating illnesses since primitive times. Paintings in the tombs of the pharaohs show that plants were being used by the Ancient Egyptians for medicinal purposes.

Today, some modern drugs are still based on natural herbs. Aspirin, for example, is based on the bark of the willow tree.

Natural remedies are attracting increasing attention all over the world. The advantage of herbal medicine is that the whole of the plant can be used: the powerful substance in the plant cures the illness while the contents of the rest of the plant may help to prevent any harmful side effects. In this way, herbal medicines may be safer than chemical ones. Garlic is just one herb that has been used throughout the world as a cure for diseases as it is used to treat hair problems. Similarly, henna, which is known to be good for the hair, can also be used in the treatment of cancer.

If you pay a visit to a herbalist shop in Cairo, you will be struck by the different colors and smells. There are jars full of tree barks, roots, powders, oils, and spices. The customer enters the shop and explains their symptoms to the herbalist, who will take notes, study medical reports and check his reference books before writing out a prescription.

Many researchers, engineers, and environmentalists are expressing deep concern about changes in the overall climate of the planet. Fossil fuels are being used continuously to produce electricity. The burning of these fuels produces gases like carbon dioxide, methane and nitrous oxides, which lead to global warming. Desertification is also leading to warmer temperatures. The hazard of global warming is continuously causing major damage to the earth's environment. Most people are still unaware of global warming and don't consider it a big problem in the years to come. What most people don't understand is that global warming is currently happening and we are already experiencing some of its weathering effects. It severely affects ecosystems and disturbs the ecological balance. Therefore some solutions must be devised.

Alternative energy sources such as: solar, wind, hydro, geothermal, biomass need to be seriously pursued.

Finding and using renewable sources is one of the methods to combat the ever-increasing global warming effectively since the continuous rise in the temperature of the planet is really upsetting.

When sunlight reaches the earth, 30% of the earth's sunlight is sent back into space, while the remaining is absorbed by oceans, air and land. This heats up the surface of the planet. It is caused by anthropogenic activities.

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Trend-making on social media has become one of the most powerful ways to spread ideas today. Every day, millions of people share short videos, pictures, and posts. Some of these posts become viral, meaning they are shared quickly by huge numbers of users. A viral story can appear in one country in the morning and reach the rest of the world by evening.

Many trends begin with one simple post, often made by an ordinary person. It might be a funny moment, a useful tip, or a surprising event. When people like and share it, the trend grows. Sometimes, influencers are paid to help push a trend forward because they have large groups of followers. This happens for different purposes, like political, sports, economic, or even promotional. At other times, a trend spreads naturally without any planning.

However, not all viral stories are positive. Some include false information that spreads confusion. Many people believe everything they see online, but it is important to check the truth before sharing anything. A story that looks exciting may not be real at all.

Still, social media trends can also be helpful. They can support good causes, teach new skills, or bring attention to important problems. 3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Have you ever convinced a friend to watch a movie you liked? That is persuasion in action. Persuasion is the skill of guiding someone to agree with you or take action, not by force, but by using good reasons and clear communication. It is a powerful tool in everyday life, from discussing issues with your family to presenting ideas in class.

Think of a time you wanted to join a school club. You probably explained why it was interesting and how you could contribute. Those were persuasive points. Famous speakers, like historical leaders, used persuasion to inspire millions. They shared a clear vision and supported it with strong examples that people could understand and believe in.

In school, persuasion helps during debates or project presentations. You learn to organize your thoughts, provide facts, and speak confidently. For example, if you want your class to start a recycling program, you wouldn't just say it's good. You would show statistics on waste reduction, explain the environmental benefits simply, and suggest a small, easy first step.

Persuasion works best when it is honest, respectful, and built on logic, not just emotion. It is not about tricking people. It is about connecting with them, understanding their views, and offering a new perspective that makes sense. By learning this skill, you can share your ideas more effectively and work better with others to achieve common goals.

- a) faster and more exciting b) honest and built on logic
c) full of jokes and stories d) done only by adults

c) become a famous leader quickly

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Dangerous substances discharged by factories cause toxic or poisonous air pollution. The emissions have serious effects on public health. Needless to say, exposure to high levels of these toxic emissions will cause a lot of human suffering through chest ailments and diseases.

Toxic chemicals, which do not break down easily in the atmosphere have been known to travel great distances and return to the earth's surface. Moreover, pollutants emitted from automobiles, cars and other means of transport and dry cleaners are considered very dangerous. In this way, a huge quantity of cancer-causing chemicals are released into the air.

Benzene is known to cause leukemia in humans. This is a serious problem which causes harm to human health. The World Health Organization (WHO) reaffirms that the hole of the ozone layer has been widening. Two thirds of the layer that protects the globe have been completely destroyed.

Ozone absorbs the harmful ultraviolet rays that cause skin cancer and damage eyesight.

Many countries are now taking action to reduce pollution. But this pollution problem may solve itself when the world oil wells have run out. Then we hope that alternative sources of energy will have been found.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c, or d:

- 1 The ozone layer, being widened by pollutants,
- a) prevents ultraviolet rays from coming down to earth
 - b) protects the globe
 - c) allows ultraviolet rays to come down to earth and cause human suffering
 - d) absorbs the harmful pollutants

3. Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Octopuses are extremely intelligent. They have even learnt a few tricks to get them out of sticky situations, like when they are afraid of a predator. As octopuses don't have teeth or sharp claws to defend themselves, they hide in the sand on the bottom of the ocean floor. Do you want to know how they do that? Well, the octopus is like a chameleon because it can change the color of its skin to match the sand. This color change happens in less than a minute.

Some octopuses like to stay in more shallow water where there are rocks and coral. However, octopuses can squeeze themselves into small spaces between the rocks to get out of reach of predators. Another way an octopus can hide is by shooting ink. An octopus uses a part of its body called a siphon to shoot ink into the water. The ink forms a cloud that hides the octopus. It's like a magician doing a vanishing act.

If an octopus is being attacked, it can actually make itself look like a venomous sea snake. It will bury itself in the sand, keeping two arms visible. It will change the color of those arms to match the color of a sea snake.

If an octopus is in trouble, it can break off one of its arms. The arm will then change color and squirm around the water to distract the predator while the octopus swims away to safety. Don't worry though. The octopus's arm will grow back.

Dear Mr Reda,

I hope everything is OK with you. Yesterday, I had a night party with my friends, so I had to stay up very late. Let me tell you that the party was amazing. We had lots of fun there. The food was tasty and fresh; those people are excellent at hosting guests. However, I don't like fish at all; they should have asked me what to eat. Never mind! The video games were up-to-date and I beat them all. My friend's father loves sports, so we enjoyed playing table tennis and volleyball. But let me tell you that all of them liked my outfit. They laughed out loud once they saw me with my fascinating orange shoes, red trousers and checked-colorful shirt. Ahmed and Amgad threw tissues at me. I am always fashionable as you know. At the end of the day, we had many pictures which you can find in the attachments below. I couldn't find any transportation, so I requested a ride. It cost only half the price of my sunglasses which cost 150 pounds. When I got home, I realized that I had forgotten my wallet at my friend's, but my mom solved the problem and the driver was understanding. Anyway, I'm writing to inform you that I will not show up today because I haven't done any task yet and I'm tired a little bit because of the dancing. See you soon, my manager.

Best regards,

Anas
